Guangdong University of Foreign Studies (GDUFS)

Sponsored by

Office of Project 211 (III), GDUFS
Division of Graduate Education, GDUFS
Office of Academic Research, GDUFS
Institute of Language Studies, Sun Yat-Sen University
School of Foreign Languages, Tianjing University of Commerce

CONFERENCE DESCRIPTION:

New discourses are understood as new lexicons and new ways of using language to do things, which, while being brought about by social change, contribute to it to various extents. A look at the new discourses in the contemporary Chinese context helps better understand socio-political transformation therein. For this purpose, NDCC 2011 will explore the dialectic relation between discourse and social change in various domains of social life in China.

The first colloquium and workshop were jointly organised by Nankai University and Tianjin University of Commerce in April 2006, the second by Lancaster University (IAS, LCMC, and LEAL) in September 2007, and the third by Tianjin University of Commerce and Nankai University in May 2009. The fourth NDCC conference is to be held by the Faculty of English Language and Culture, Guangdong University of Foreign Studies in November 2011.

CONFERENCE TOPICS:

NDCC 2011 includes but is not limited to the following topics:

- Discourse and crisis management;
- Discourse and international politics / international relations;
- Discourse and public sphere;
- World Expo discourse and national identities;
- Discursive construction of network community and related intertextuality studies;
- Discourses in Chinese social sphere of governance, advertising, management, education, media, gender, etc;
